Herbal baths

Indulge in the beneficial combination of medicinal herbs and warm spring water. Herbal medicines have been a key part of treatment since ancient times.

In order to restore the body's impaired functions, we must supply the body with substances and elements that are contained in a harmonious ratio in medicinal plants.

Herbal treatment will help you strengthen your body as a whole and along with this another advantage is the natural origin of these medicines, which have a tradition that has been tested by many generations.

During the bath, believe in the beneficial effect of the warm herbal spring water. Feel how the ailments that bother you gradually weaken and leave your body.

If you are lucky enough to enjoy good health, then you can embrace the warm herbal water and sit back in complete relaxation and wish for everything good.

Description of the procedure

The bath is prepared with an infusion of dried herbs in a cloth bag and when this is added to the bath it only takes a short amount of time until the active substances are then released into the bath. The bath has an effect not only through the herbal infusion contained, but also through aromatherapy. It is also impossible to forget the positive effect of relaxing and warming up the muscles before the massage, which we recommend after the bath. The possibility of ordering one of the herbal teas and drinking it during the bath will also contribute to relaxation during the bath. The water temperature is between 35-38°C, the recommended time is 25 minutes. If you do not like the water temperature, you can regulate it yourself during the bath. After the bath, you will spend another 15 minutes on the sofa, wrapped in a sheet and a warm blanket. This continuation of the procedure leads to further relaxation of the body and enhances pleasant feelings.

The baths have a long-term effect if they are followed daily or every other day in a total of at least 10. As a natural continuation, our guests then choose a massage of their choice. Warm water combined with rest will relax the body and all your muscles, making the massage much more effective.

Caution should be taken when choosing the type of bath and its temperature as it may not be appropriate for patients with heart disease and high blood pressure.

Bath of Kings

Already in ancient times of the famous Incas, a bath was used for Inca kings and dignitaries, and later also some Spanish kings. Currently, it is used by Indian shamans in Ecuador and Peru. This unique bath was created by combining pine shoots and the Minthostachys mollis (tipo, tipollo, poleo - local names) plant (a 60 cm tall shrub) from the Peruvian plateaus of Puno and Cusco. The bath is used in the treatment of respiratory tract infections, sinus infections, coughs, urinary tract infections and against parasites (tapeworms). It is also used to improve the healing of bone fractures and osteoporosis.

Ingredients:

Minthostachys mollis, pine shoot
